LIFE AFTER RETIREMENT

About Me and Once Upon a Time...

Who I am? I am figuring that out now that my nest is empty and I no longer work in a full-time career I loved for 25 years. But at the core, I am a woman trying to be the best version of myself, a loving wife to my Prince Charming, a mother to my darling daughters, and a grandma to my precious granddaughters. This blog is about life after retirement and that there is still much more life to live. Through this blog, I aim to inspire others in the same chapter of life to try new adventures, enjoy old favorite hobbies and activities, and to continue to really live!

Leslie, this is my first time to this site. I love it. As I re-enter the classroom environment, I am looking for great books for the 5th graders I will teach. I love the summaries and recommended age and reading levels. I will continue to follow you. – Susan Cole

Leslie, you're my hero! I love the way you're living your life. – Lana

I'm so glad I have found your blog. I appreciate your humor and honesty in what you write and it makes me look forward to your next posts. You're such an inspiration to me + you crack me up with so many of the topics you cover. – Cathy Crandall
